Tawodi ("Hawk") was raised the Cherokee Way in the Blue Ridge Mountains of present day western North Carolina. His life begins in the early 16th century as Imperial Spain attempts to annex southeast North America to its rapidly expanding New World empire. It will be these Spanish invasions that expose Tawodi, as warrior and town chief of Cauchi, to the armies of La Florida Governor Hernando de Soto and, twenty-five years later, to Spanish forts constructed across the Carolinas into Tennessee by ...
